Norwich-based SaxonAir is first U.K. operator to add aircraft to AOC

FARNBOROUGH, U.K. (July 19, 2010) – Hawker Beechcraft Corporation (HBC) today announced that the first two Hawker 400XP aircraft are operating on charter certificate in the United Kingdom. The aircraft are in operation with SaxonAir, a Norwich-based private jet charter company, which is the first U.K. charter operator to add the Hawker 400XP to its Air Operators Certificate (AOC). SaxonAir purchased a Hawker 400XP, which is based at its Norwich International Airport headquarters, and is managing a second, which is positioned at Edinburgh Airport in Scotland.

“SaxonAir made an excellent decision to add these two Hawker 400XP aircraft to their charter jet service,” said Sean McGeough, HBC president, Europe, Middle East and Africa region. “The aircraft will provide its customers with an economical and versatile alternative for business trips, while offering a balance of comfort and performance.”
